The international summer university of SEE is now open

From yesterday and up until the 28th of this month, the University of Southeast Europe in Tetovo will host the second International Summer University which will be attended by around 600 students from Macedonia and several other European countries.

The goal of this event for the students is to gain new knowledge and exchange the already gained knowledge and experiences, through the principle of the credit transfer system. The students will gain the new knowledge in courses in public administration, law and economy/economics. The teachers will be professors from Macedonia as well as professors from Universities in the USA and the European Union.

From the 600 students participating, 460 are from Macedonia, and the others are from several European countries.
